

DISCUSSES POLITICS BEFORE BARRISTERS

S. S. GREGORY, PRESIDENT AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION, SPEAKS ON TOPICS OF NATIONAL INTEREST.

PRESENT DAY ISSUES

Characterizes Age As One of Political Revolution, With Wave Of Progressivism Threatening To Sweep Over Land.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 27.—S. S. Gregory of Chicago, president of the American Bar Association in his annual address before the association here today said in part:

"It is quite obvious that we live in a time of much political and governmental activities. No doubt the importance and gravity of the controversy is often exaggerated by those who participate in it. In the prospect of history, political and public conflicts lose somewhat of their sharp outline and aspect of almost revolutionary violence which it was while a battle is on making all due allowance, when we reflect that two amendments to our national constitution are now apparently to be adopted; when we consider that radical changes in their organized law already have been secured in several states and contemplated in others; when we remember that marked innovations in political methods accomplished this year for the first time to the selection of presidential candidates, it is not necessary to look beyond the extensive confines of our own land nor to consider the changes elsewhere where scarcely less significance to establish the proposition that we live in an age of political revolution. Now we seem to have reached a time when the very constitution of our government is under critical investigation.

Those safeguards in administration which have been deemed essential to the security of right to life, liberty and to property, is concerned in the question. The progressive tide, staid by the constitutional barriers, threatens now to sweep them all away; to spread itself widely over the fields and valleys, carrying with it old forms, old institutions, and old ideas, bringing in its train, according to contending views, either devastation or blessing, but concededly involving radical changes. When we remember the work of the recent session of Congress and consider the adoption of a great resolution proposing to the state, an amendment to cause the election of members of the Senate by a direct vote."

He referred to the Lorimer case as strengthening in popularity the demand for a direct vote. As to Judge Hanford he said that having read the evidence as printed in the newspaper, he ventured to express the opinion that possibly he ought not to, but that matter sought to be proved, seemed to have been the most just, trivial and to fall far short of such high crimes and misdemeanors as would warrant an impeachment of a federal judge.

On the question of woman suffrage, he said he was satisfied that if the ladies made up their minds with any degree of unanimity they would get it and at the present time there are strong indications that they had decided that they are entitled to and should have this vital and important political right.

Owing to the length of the opening addresses it was believed the executive committee's report unsentencing William H. Lewis because he is a negro would not be considering until late today.

Gov. Francis E. McGovern told the 1,900 lawyers from all parts of the country that "the people were becoming tired of judicial usurpation and the settlement of law cases on technicalities rather than on merit."

"I warn you that the people are coming to realize that the law was made for man and not man for the law," said Gov. McGovern. "This belief is sweeping the country and if they are anyone who ought to realize it, it is the lawyers."

WILL INVESTIGATE JURORS IN PROBE

District Attorney Discovers Juror in Police Investigation Owns Property Used For Disorderly Purposes.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Aug. 27.—Members of the extraordinary grand jury that has been summoned to inquire into police blackmail will be investigated as to their real estate holdings by District Attorney Whitman who has discovered that one of the grand jurors, consisting of fifty business men, is part owner of a hotel which is used for disorderly purposes. The state's attorney insists that the extraordinary grand jury shall not have even a remote connection with the graft and, if necessary, he will challenge the prospective grand jurors in open court.

The news that Police Commissioner Waldo would publish a list of the owners of gambling and disorderly houses has caused a panic among the owners who have delayed the police commissioner with frantic appeals not to make their names public.

It was stated on good authority that District Attorney Whitman came into possession of additional evidence today through a letter from John D. Hallen, a disbarred lawyer who was recently sentenced to Sing Sing for forgery. Hallen is alleged to have overheard a conversation between Lieut. Becker and policeman White who has been indicted for perjury in connection with the arrest of "Big Jack" Selig. Hallen writes that he heard White say to Becker, "Gee, they've got you chert." "Shut your big trap. In six months they will be giving us medals for what we did," Becker is alleged to have responded.

It was understood that the district attorney will have Hallen brought from Sing Sing for further examination. John F. McIntyre counsel for police lieutenant Charles Becker, indicted for the murder of Herman Rosenthal today, obtained a delay in the case until Sept. 3, by serving a writ staying the proceedings. The writ was served on assistant district attorney Rubin and Judge McGuire of the Court of General Sessions before whom Becker was to have been arraigned today for pleading. Becker was arraigned last Tuesday for pleading; but his counsel obtained an adjournment until today.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS IN MICHIGAN TODAY

William Smith has no opposition for United States Senator on the republican ticket but the progressives have Thomas M. Joslyn, Mayor of Adrian, in the field while the democrats have Alfred Lucking of Detroit and George Hummer fighting for the right to bear the party's standard. CRITICISES WORK OF DEMOCRATS IN HOUSE

REPUBLICAN LEADER MANN USES BITTER TERMS IN ARRAIGNING DEMOCRATIC MAJORITY TODAY.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

ACCOMPLISHED LITTLE

Says Democrats Have Bragged Much of What They Would Do in the Future But Have Done Less Than Former Congresses.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Aug. 27.—Insufficient disorganized, unprogressive and inactive was the description applied to the work of the democratic house by republican leader James R. Mann, in a statement issued today reviewing the work of the house.

Mr. Mann characterized some of the democratic majority work as "stingy and silly" and other of its acts as "pure extravagance." "The main work in the house on the democratic side has been a constant boasting of what they were going to do at the next session," said Mr. Mann. "I said last December this session of congress would last longer and do less than other regular sessions of recent years. My forecast proved correct."

"This session of congress has enacted laws fewer in number and of less importance than any session in recent years. The laws are, however, passed in the main of little importance and generally local in character. The Panama canal bill is the one of the greatest importance and in the main that was a bill prepared by me in a prior congress."

The claimed reformation of the rules has proven a farce. That the house has been inefficient is shown by the fact that over 200 senate bills which passed the senate remain unacted on in the house. It is a constant boast that the democrats at this session passed a law providing for publicity of campaign contributions. Such is not the fact.

They only passed an amendment to the law which previously had been passed by a republican house and the principle part is one relating to primary campaign expenses and that was considered in the law by the republican of the house against the protest of the democratic side of the house.

"Somehow similar is the bill relating to eight hour labor which is only an amendment of a previous law and only made a slight change in the provisions of the original act. Practically all of the laws of any importance passed at this session either were bills prepared in a previous congress and left over for a previous congress to consider, or else they were bills prepared by officials in President Taft's administration."

Mr. Mann referred to the public health laws, the homestead laws, the bill creating a children's bureau and others as being within that classification. "The democrats were forced to agree to a parcels post which only a short time ago they insisted they would not agree to it. They are entitled to no credit for it."

"Outside of money expended for the Panama canal which cannot be considered as ordinary expenses, the appropriation for this session of congress exceeds for the last republican session. Not only is this so but the democrats have appropriated money in many places where it was pure extravagance and where the money was not needed and have refused to make appropriations where they are absolutely essential for the conduct of good."

WILL VOTE ON MANY AMENDMENTS AT A SPECIAL ELECTION

Woman's Suffrage, Initiative, Referendum and Other Amendments to Constitution to Be Submitted to Ohio Voters Sept. 3.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Columbus, O., Aug. 27.—Woman's suffrage, the initiative and referendum, good roads, taxation, the minimum wage, and a change in the judicial system, are among the things that have been incorporated in proposed amendments to Ohio's constitution, and which will be voted upon by the people of the state at a special election on September 3.

The 41 amendments which will be presented for ratification, deal with a variety of problems from the regulation of bill board advertising to municipal home rule, and were framed by a constitutional convention, which worked six months at an expense of more than $200,000.

Ohio's present constitution was framed in 1852. In the winter of 1873-4, a constitutional convention was held, but its work was rejected at the polls.

Nightly meetings are being held over the state by ministers, professors, lawyers, business men and politicians who are debating the effects which the various proposals would have upon the welfare of the state.

The initiative and referendum proposal, as adopted by the constitutional convention, will go into effect on October 1 of this year if ratified, while the other proposals would not be effective until January 1.

The proposed initiative and referendum provided for the direct initiative upon petition of 10 per cent of the state's voters on amendments to the constitution, and the indirect initiative upon legislative questions.

Should three per cent of the electors petition the secretary of state for a law, the secretary of state must refer the petition to the general assembly. If the legislature should pass the law petitioned for, it would become subject to the referendum which would require the signatures of an additional three per cent of the voters to become effective.

If the general assembly should fail to pass the law, or pass it in amended form, the original bill and the substitute should be presented to the people for a referendum vote, upon petition of an additional three per cent of the voters.

Any law passed by the general assembly could, under the proposed amendment, be voted upon by the people, upon petition of six per cent of the electors. The proposal places an inhibition upon the using of the initiative and referendum for the passage of laws for the classification of property for taxation or for the single tax.

Another proposed amendment provides for limiting the power of the supreme court, by making the circuit courts the court of last resort in the majority of cases. The name of the circuit court would be changed to the court of appeals. The supreme court would then be the last court in constitutional cases, and cases where the life of a prisoner was at stake.

The women's suffrage proposal would eliminate the word "male" from the present constitution, and give votes to woman suffragists for the passage of this amendment. Those opposed to equal suffrage are making an equally strong campaign against its passage.

The proposed good roads amendment provides for a state bond issue of $50,000,000 for the building and maintenance of good inter-county wagon roads.

Labor leaders of the state secured the passage by the convention of a proposed amendment providing for the welfare of employees and for the enactment of a minimum wage.

Under the proposed home rule for cities proposal, municipalities could adopt any one of the three following forms of government:

1. They might, upon the vote of the electors, elect fifteen citizens to frame a charter, which would then have to be submitted to the voters for approval.

2. They might decide to be governed as at present, by a municipal code framed by the legislature.

The removal of all public officials, including the judiciary, upon complaint and hearing, is provided for in an amendment, which was passed by the convention after the recall, as in effect in the western states, had been defeated.

Another proposal which is causing much campaigning throughout the state, is the one providing for a liquor license. This proposal provides for limiting the number of saloons, one to every 500 population. In the larger cities, it would decrease the number of saloons from two-thirds to one-half.

Other proposals which will be voted upon, provide: Reform in Civil Jury System—provides for a verdict in a civil case, upon a vote of three-fourths of the jury.

Abolition of capital punishment—provides for life imprisonment at hard labor as punishment for first degree murder, instead of electrocution. Depositions by state—provides that the state may have the right to take depositions in criminal cases. Also provides that the judge shall take notice of the failure of the accused to testify.

Suits against state—provides that suits may be brought against the state. Such suits cannot now be brought.

Damage for wrongful death—takes off the present limit of $12,000 damages for wrongful death, and places no limit.

Investigations—provides that the legislature may investigate along lines of proposed legislative action.

Did You Ever Stop to Think How Much You Owe to Advertising.

By J. R. HAMILTON

Former Advertising Manager of Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

Ninety million people owe most of their comforts, their luxuries their degree of prosperity, and many of them even their lives to advertising and yet few of us even stop to think of it except as a necessary evil.

Through the publicity given a certain anti-toxin, that dread disease, Diphtheria, which used to mow down grain, is hardly dangerous any more. We never cut a finger or scratch a hand but what we go straight to a bottle of advertised antiseptic. (And this has no relation to so-called patent medicines.)

When we rise in the morning we put on an advertised stocking that saves us hours of weary labor. We touch a match to an advertised gas stove and save another half hour. We put on an advertised toaster and save our tempers and our digestion. We dress in advertised clothes (advertised either by the maker or the seller) and from then until the time we go to sleep again on an advertised bed, we are dealing with and living in touch with publicity throughout the livelong day.

We use it as our guarantee of quality or price, or good faith on the part of the seller. We act on with full faith, and we accept it, implicitly at all times. We sometimes doubt the absolute veracity of what it claims, but we never doubt the dead certainty of the man who signs his name to it, either to make good what he claims or cheerfully to give us back our cash.

They say this is a day when no man can succeed without advertising, but it is even more than that. It is a day when no family can succeed without READING THE ADVERTISING.

If most people were as impervious to advertising as they think they are, they would be twenty-five years behind the times in everything they do.

The time has come when advertising has got to be treated as news, read as news and acted upon as news.

The people who do not read advertising, like the people who do not use advertising, are getting farther and farther behind in the race every year.

"THE LIFE OF BUFFALO BILL"

in 3 reels

An exact reproduction of the thrilling adventures of Buffalo Bill (Col. W. F. Cody), made under his personal direction and containing remarkable episodes in the life of the last of the great scouts.

Posed for by Buffalo Bill himself, with his great band of Indians, Cowboys and Soldiers, and acted on the exact ground where his great adventures took place, not for a moving picture camera, but for dear life itself.

We first see Buffalo Bill on his beautiful white charger, rambling over his spacious ranch near Cody, Wyoming. The Colonel becomes weary, unsaddles his horse, and lies down for a nap; while asleep he dreams of the days gone by.

He first sees himself on the old Santa Fe trail, before the coming of the railroad. He once more is back with his little band of scouts, ever alert, watchful for the United States soldiers who are camped about 50 miles from the present location of Col. Cody and his Scouts. We see the scouts coming down the hill with their prairie schooners which hold their provisions, also a few settlers who are being escorted by these great warriors. They make camp for the night and are attacked by Indians. A terrific battle ensues, which marks the beginning of the exciting, dramatic action of the film.

WHAT INCOME TAXES REALLY MEAN IS IN DANE COUNTY TABLE

Assessment Made Public in Dane County Shows What Rock County Can Expect.

In the following report from Dane county of the income taxes assessed the residents of Rock county can see what they may expect from the present re-assessment. The report that but twenty-five farmers of the county are affected by the tax or that less than five per cent of business men are to feel the increase is evidently a mis-statement. The following are the figures from Dane county:

Dane county income tax assessment roll as applied to individuals which was made public today who saw a large increase in income tax over the personal assessment. University professors are hit especially hard. Of the individual tax payers the largest in Dane county is W. D. Curtis, a manufacturer and president of the Commercial National Bank, who will pay $768.52, income tax, against $84 last year. Others who will pay large income taxes as compared with last year's personal tax are C. R. Van Hise $246.18; against $40.25 last year; Prof. D. W. Mead, $13.12 against $4.37; T. E. Brittingham, $389.88 against $29.49; C. P. Cary, $52.85 against $6.25; Burr W. Jones $760.90 against $36.31; W. F. Vilas estate, $1896.87 against $1,941.19; C. K. Leish $299.90 against nothing last year; H. L. Butler $427.50 against $24.50; John M. Olin $296.95 against $8.31; John A. Alward $264.80 against $14.88; Joseph E. CLERKS IN MEETING HEAR DIFFICULTIES OF SECOND CHOICE

County Clerk Explains Intricacies of Mary Ann Law As it Effects Election Clerks and Inspectors.

About thirty township, city and village clerks met at the court house this morning in response to an invitation sent out by County Clerk Howard W. Lee, for the purpose of going over the election paraphernalia to be used at the coming primary election, Sept. 3, and especially to clear up the difficulties incident to the operation of the second choice act which will be effective for the first time at this election.

The clerks, Mr. Lee pointed out, must concern themselves especially with the manner of keeping the tally sheets for the second choice and with the making out of the inspector's statement. The tally sheets, which will be used at the election were distributed and the exact method of counting the first and second choice votes was indicated.

Each candidate, it was shown, would receive in addition to his first choice votes, second choice votes from voters who cast their first choice for some other candidate. Thus a candidate where there is five in the race, as in the republican contest for sheriff, would have four sets of second choice votes in addition to his first choice total. These second choice votes must be kept separate on the tally sheets in order that the board of canvassers may make the totals and strike out the names of the lowest candidate if necessary. The clerks have nothing to do with the elimination process, but must merely make their returns accurately and plainly.

The inspector's statement is complicated by the operation of the second choice measure. It required the writing in of the name of each candidate on each ticket several times, according to the number of candidates and the number of second choice votes received from the different candidates. The length of this statement will result in a considerable delay in receiving the election returns.

Other matters relative to the primary were also discussed. The matter of counting the ballots and ascertaining that the number of ballots cast tallied with the poll list was discussed. Two ballot boxes will be necessary, one for the ballots voted and another for the waste ballots. The work of sealing up the returns ready for delivery at the county clerk's office was reviewed and an endeavor made to clear up any and all possible difficulties.

Owing to the fact that this is registration day in Beloit none of the Beloit men were able to be present. Mr. Lee will go to Beloit this evening, however, and will hold a special session with the Beloit clerks and inspectors.

Among those present at the meeting this morning were: C. J. D. Garde, Avon; Mr. Irish, Bradford; C. H. Whitmore, Center; L. M. Jacobson, Clinton; O. P. Murwin, Fulton; E. L. Bingham, Harmony; F. J. McFarlane, Johnston; W. E. Gleason, La Prairie; W. D. McComb, Lima; R. E. Acheson, Magnolia; M. E. Stebbins, Newark; M. Ehringer, Plymouth; B. W. Towns, Porter; Edw. J. Tracey, Rock; A. C. Gardner, Spring Valley; M. N. Wheeler, Turtle; Fred Gillman, Evansville; S. C. Burnham, and Harry McNamara, Janesville; A. W. Miller, Clinton, village.

Mrs. Mary Ennis. Mrs. Mary Ennis died this morning at 7:30 o'clock. She had been a resident of Janesville all her life. Funeral announcements will be made later.

Nearly Fifty Years Resident of La Prairie Passes Away. Death, the leveler of all ranks, has made sad inroads upon the remaining pioneers of Rock county. Many old and familiar faces are gone never to return. Another old and well known resident dropped out of the ranks when Mrs. Olive Ann Finch closed her eyes in that dreamless sleep, and entered that haven of rest to which she belonged last at the home of her son, Frank Finch.

MRS. OLIVE ANN FINCH. at one o'clock Friday afternoon. She was conscious until the last retaining her mind, throughout it all, recognizing those about her, and never realizing that the death angel hovered near.

Olive Ann Finch was born in Schiller Center, Cayuga county, New York, July 28, 1832, making her seventy-nine years of age at her death.

She was the only daughter of David and Sally Runsey Warner. Her girlhood was spent in the little village, and there she received her education.

On January 5, 1854, she was united in marriage to Bethuel P. Finch. In the same year they came to Wisconsin, to make their home, becoming homesteaders on the wild prairie, they moved east. About nine years later, hearing glowing tales of Wisconsin, they came west again, with their family and settled on a farm seven and one-half miles southeast of Janesville, where Mrs. Finch has since resided.

Three sons came to bless their union. Frank A., Chas. N., and William, who died in infancy. New York, Oct. 26, 1893, Mr. Finch and Lewis Thompson were drowned while fishing in Rock river.

Mrs. Finch was one of the charter members of the La Prairie Grange, always taking great interest in all Grange work, trying to get new members and contributing articles for the Grange News.

Out of the Grange sprang a Society called the L. M. P. S., which she was instrumental in organizing. She never missed a meeting until health failed her and always held an office in both societies.

Mrs. Finch was a woman who was widely known throughout the town and was almost generally known as Aunt Olive.

Suffering a long and painful illness, she did not murmur or complain in the least. Accepting it all with the spirit of trust and resignation which has characterized her throughout her life. Always self-sacrificing and working with untiring zeal for the good of others.

She was endowed with all the courage and fortitude of her Puritan ancestors. Her power of standing pain was remarkable. She was always noted for her good common sense.

Always faithful to her friends and true to the principles which govern right and justice always a devoted mother and grandmother, a kindly greeting and a good word for everyone, no matter how bad, she always saw some good in everyone.

Thus ended a long and eventful life. Her death was peaceful and happy.

She leaves to mourn her loss, two sons, Frank and Chas. and two grandchildren, Ora and Russell Finch.

Funeral services were held at the home, Monday at two o'clock. Interment was made in Emerald Grove cemetery.

White Ants Live High. A species of white ants, called termites, is noted for its high hills or dwellings. If the houses of men were proportionately high, size for size, the humblest cottage would be a mile in height.

"What are you holding your bat in your hand for?" asked Ed Sweeney, the New York Yankees' star catcher, when he saw Russell Ford trying out some bats the other day. "You pitchers have a nerve to get your pictures in the paper with a bat in your hands."

"Is that so?" said Ford. "Look over the averages and you will find that I am leading the club in batting. I am hitting over .300. Don't overlook that."

With which clever retort Ford commenced swinging three bats a la Cobb.

"I notice that Eddie McGorty is the real class of the middleweight division around here right now," declared Billy Papke in Chicago the other day. "Well, he'll suit me for a match near Chicago about as well if not better, than anybody, but I would suggest that we box along about the latter part of September, and not too early. About the 24th or 25th would do for me nicely, and I'll promise to teach Eddie a few lessons in the big league stuff."

"Eddie's a fine young man, but he's too ambitious for the guns he carries. So I'd be pleased to teach him his place and to show the public, incidentally, that I'm the real western bird to wear that crown. This same goes for Mike Gibbons, Knockout Brown or any of the other middleweights that don't agree with me."

They must have some real pitchers in the Appalachian league. The other day Finis Wilson, a left-handed Knoxville twirler, after shutting out the Johnson City team without a hit or a run, pitched the second game of a double header and allowed only six hits and no runs.

"HAIRBREADTH HARRY" TO ENTER MILWAUKEE RACES.

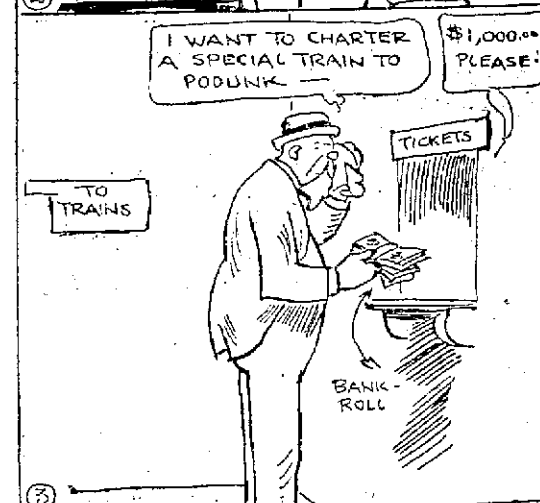

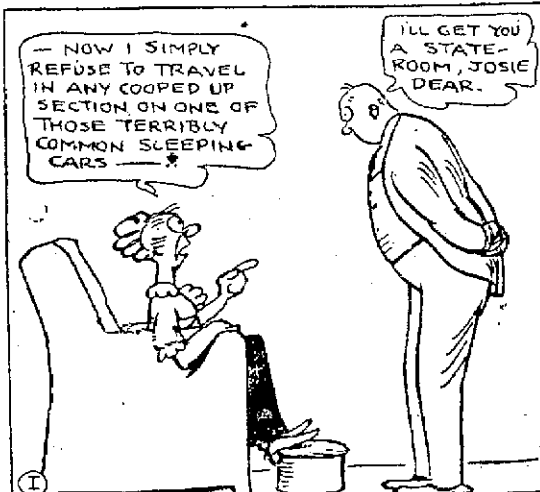

H. C. Nelson, Famous Milwaukee Pilot Will Drive R. C. Knowles' Speedy Lozier.

Milwaukee is doing more than merely promoting the Vanderbilt cup races to be held here in September. The dyed-in-the-wool auto race sportsman of the Cream City, are to be representative in the thick of the heart-breaking contests by one of their own men long ago well tried as an auto speed pilot, Harry C. Nelson.

Mr. Nelson has entered the Vanderbilt cup race with a speedy Lozier car, the property of a Milwaukeean, R. H. Knowles, one of Milwaukee's wealthy men and long recognized as a supporter of every kind of commendable sport. The machine is expensive and especially built for setting new records for road races.

Harry Nelson has been well known in the auto race world for more than six years, and ever has been noted as a daring and successful driver. In 1906 he drove a Pope-Hartford, in 1908—Pope-Toledo and a Stearns, in 1910 a Pope-Hartford again.

One world's record has been hung up by Mr. Nelson. The feat was accomplished in 1907 when at State Fair park, driving a Locomobile he established a new record for a twenty-four hour race. Nelson is a "gamey" and "heady" driver, and when he enters the races here determined to win honor for himself and his native city, Milwaukee, with speedy car owned by a native of Milwaukee, he certainly will make the world's most famous drivers who will compete against him either bow to him or break all their past records in making him taste defeat.

FINANCING CAMPAIGNS.

We have heard so much about the financing of national campaigns for various candidates in the past, of the three millions spent by the Roosevelt managers in the pre-convention struggle and so forth, that it is interesting to read an impartial discussion of the question. Congress has adjourned, but before doing so it passed a resolution calling for another investigation of affairs which will bring Theodore Roosevelt into the limelight. The Christian Science Monitor takes up the question of financing politics as follows:

"Students of the evolution of government cannot but note that with increasing use of democratic devices for selecting officials and choosing national policies the cost of the process does not diminish either relatively or absolutely. Moreover, as the gross sum of investments to be increased or diminished in value by choice between respective revenue policies mounts up, the temptation to shape the decision gains in force, and thus enter into closer relations with practical politicians and decide upon larger fixed or occasional assessments for partisan ends. Nor is this all that contributes to the costliness of political activity in twentieth century America as compared with the days of Jefferson and Hamilton, Lincoln and Douglas. Much service that then was voluntary now must be paid for. Legitimate expenses of carrying on a presidential campaign are relatively larger than they used to be.

"The logic of this fact is simple. The party that has the largest treasure chest, however filled, has its competitors handicapped. Consequently we have the serious effort that is now being made by the nation and by the states to lessen, so far as possible, the costs of gaining office, so that individual aspirants or parties with limited resources may stand a fairer chance in the contest. The first step in this process was forcing publicity as to expense incurred and the names of donors to election contest funds. The second was a formal limiting of the sum that might be spent legitimately by candidates either in primaries or in elections. In states where the democratic principle has been carried to the extreme considerable of the inevitable expense now borne by candidates hereafter is to be carried by the public; and the tendency will be more and more in that direction.

Parties and candidates are now facing a much more rigorous public opinion on this issue. "Where did you get it? What is implied by acceptance? How did you spend it?" These are queries that now face treasurers of campaign committees. Realizing the necessity of meeting this scrutiny, men in charge of the present presidential contest are devising plans to raise necessary funds so far as possible, by popular methods, in smaller sums than hitherto, and from as large a number of givers as can be enlisted. This course is both politic and prudent. A man who has given cash to a cause works for it. A campaign fund of mites, at this juncture, will be a shrewd political device."

A FUTILE SESSION.

At the end of a session of extraordinary length, congress leaves very little to show after its weary wrangling and scheming for partisan advantage. There was never a more striking demonstration of the futility of looking to the nation's lawmakers for good and constructive work when the senate and the house are not in accord and both are at odds with the president.

Especially when a presidential campaign is on. Then the desire to advance party interests is so strong that it makes reasonably broad and fair co-operation between a democratic house and a nominally republican senate hopeless, except as both may agree upon measures known to be obnoxious to the executive head of the nation and sure to encounter his veto. Of this class were the tariff bills upon which much time was spent.

So the long session ended with very little accomplished. Attempts to enact ill-judged and pernicious laws have failed as in the effort to uproot civil service reform by limiting the assured tenure of office for government employees to seven years, and the democratic leaders in the house of representatives reluctantly and grudgingly yielded to the demand for at least one new battleship. Some important work has been done in the wide field of investigation of public questions, and an effort has been made to settle the Panama Canal question along thoroughly American lines, with proper safeguards against railroad domination of American traffic through the new waterway.

In the main, however, little can be claimed for the congress now closing its long session, outside of the usual routine work in keeping the machinery of government running and some striving to make real reductions, some justified and others dubious, in duties and imports. The proportion of practical results to time used and talk wasted has been discouraging to the country but not unexpected. From the beginning it was foreseen that little could be accomplished with so much pulling at cross purposes and so much politics in the air.

Mr. Whitte's arguments ring true, so why go further to seek a candidate for the republican nomination for the state senate? He stands for just what every business man stands for, better state government and more economical administration of state affairs.

We heard a good deal about the last highway to the cemetery being in terrible condition a year ago this time and how it should be repaired before winter set in, and yet thus far this year it has not been fixed and winter is again coming.

A load of anxiety has been taken off Governor Marshall's mind. He now knows that he has been nominated.

RAILROAD COMMISSION PLANS TO RELIEVE CAR SHORTAGE

Wisconsin Shippers Need Have No Fear If Plans As Now Arranged Are Carried Out.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Aug. 26.—If the preliminary plans outlined by the state railroad commission are carried out, the shortage of cars predicted by traffic men will be little felt in Wisconsin. Following the recent announcement by the traffic department of important railroads in the middle west, reinforced by the statement of W. A. Garrett, chairman of the Association of Western Railroads, that a serious shortage of freight cars is imminent within the next month, the railroad commission began a movement to assist Wisconsin shippers.

During the season of 1907 the commission was of much assistance to shippers, and the plan endorsed that year will be followed in its entirety this year. The commission has sent out word that where a shipper experiences any delay in securing cars the matter should be reported immediately to the commission. One member of the commission will give personal attention to car shortage complaints, keeping in touch with the traffic managers of various lines to see that cars are emptied as soon as possible.

The roads are urging that all coal shipments be ordered immediately, wherever possible.

ROW BOAT STOLEN LAST NIGHT FOR SECOND TIME

Supposed To Have Been Taken Down River By Tramps—Craft Belonged To William Boesche.

The row-boat of William Boesche was stolen last night and is supposed to have been taken down the river by some tramps. The same boat was stolen about a year ago.

The tramps who went away in it landed near the Belmont Country Club and were caught while attempting to rob a hen-roost. The boat was recovered and brought back. Chief of Police Appleby has telegraphed the Deloit police to keep a look-out for the boat. Mr. Boesche kept his boat below the Monterey dams. It is about 14 feet long, light green, with a slab seat in each end. A brass button was fixed on the top of the front seat. It was equipped with oar locks, chain and brass lock.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. You Can't Deafen Your Ears Nor Close Your Eyes to The Modern Sciences

Chiropractic, One of the Modern Sciences, More Necessary to Humanity Than Wireless, Submarine Work or Aviation.

Chiropractic is a relief to the suffering, cases of disease of many years standing have been successfully banished through the science of Chiropractic. These cases have happened right here in Janesville. Isn't it time that you were awakening to the value of this science to yourself, you who suffer from disease or malady? 'Twas a long time before you would accept the Wireless, the Submarine, the Aeroplane or any of the latest and greatest of modern inventions. Now you must accept this great truth:

ALL DISEASE COMES FROM A CROOKED SPINE

Chiropractic teaches that disease is caused by a lack of nerve nourishment in different parts or organs of the body. This necessary nerve nourishment is held up at the point in the spinal column where the nerve leaves the great trunk system of the human body. This impediment is caused by what Chiropractic terms a subluxation, a vertebra of the spinal column out of shape, as shown in the picture, and pressing on the nerve, allowing only a small portion of nerve stimulation to reach the organ or part intended. This organ or part in turn, soon becomes weakened or diseased. Chiropractic straightens the crooked vertebra and Nature, through the proper amount of nerve nourishment, makes you well again.

POSTPONE HEARING OF HUGH WAGGONER

Set by Judge Fifield For Friday Morning as Defendant's Attorney Could Not be Present Today.

On the motion of Attorney John Cunningham, who appeared for Charles Pierce, attorney for the defendant, the hearing in the case of the State of Wisconsin versus Hugh Waggoner was postponed by Judge Fifield from ten o'clock this morning to the same hour Friday morning. Attorney Pierce was not able to be present because of having business out of the city.

Waggoner was arrested last Wednesday evening, after a hard fight with Patrolman Sam Brown and Sam Dorn. He is charged with having robbed Robert Denser, a plumber on the preceding Saturday evening of six dollars in cash and a gold watch worth ten dollars. The court room was filled with spectators when the case was called this morning. The witnesses summoned were directed to appear at the hour set without an additional subpoena.

CHARGES AGAINST CHARLES CARPENTER WERE DROPPED

Case Against Former Janesville Man in Beloit Dismissed in Beloit Municipal Court Yesterday.

Charges of reckless driving brought against Charles Carpenter, formerly of this city, but now of Beloit, by Will Weirick of Beloit, were dismissed in the municipal court of Beloit yesterday when it was shown in the court that the charges were baseless. The complaint filed against Mr. Carpenter alleged that while driving into Beloit, Mr. Weirick's auto had been scraped by the one in which Mr. Carpenter was riding, in an endeavor to pass Mr. Weirick's machine. When the hearing was held, it was brought out that the complainant had made an error in his charges, as the defendant was not driving the car, but occupied the rear seat at the time the alleged offense was committed, and further that Mr. Carpenter did not own the automobile. Attorney William H. Dougherty represented Mr. Carpenter in the case.

ASK FOR PERMISSION TO LAY MORE TRACK

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Submits Ordinance to City Council—Other Business.

Authority to construct additional tracks across St. Mary's avenue is requested by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, which has submitted a draft of an ordinance granting them permission to the city council, through W. J. Underwood, district superintendent, such permission.

The ordinance was given its first reading at the meeting of the council this afternoon. The additional tracks are part of the addition to the yards now being made, which will total some 7,000 feet of track.

City Clerk P. J. Hammarlund was directed to draw an order in favor of County Treasurer A. M. Church, payable from the general fund, in the sum of $1,400, this being one-half the amount due Rock county from the city of Janesville on account of saloon license money for 1912.

Other orders directed drawn were one of $94.53 from the First ward fund in favor of G. Graham & company for the construction of brick paving in the E. M. C. A. alley after deducting the amount of special assessments from the amount of the contract, and one in favor of Charles Barhaus for $21.80 for rye straw delivered at the first stations. The latter order was to be paid from the fire and water fund.

The city treasurer was directed to transfer the sum of $115.50 from the First ward fund to the general fund, this amount being due said fund for crushed stone, use of the steam roller, and cost of inspection.

The council accepted the bond and

The Evening Chit-Chat

ENTHUSIASM.
Popularity Papers—Being the Second of a Few Little Talks on the Ingredients of Popularity.

ENTHUSIASM was a second, though not a very close second, to selfishness, in my poll of the qualities which make for popularity. Men, especially, are attracted by this quality. Girls sometimes say, "Men always like loud girls. Look at Gertrude, she is just as loud and coarse as she can be, and a terrible flirt, and she always has a string of men after her, while Lucy, who is just as sweet and nice as anything, never has a man." May it not be the vivacity and spirit, the liveliness, in short, the enthusiasm with which Gertrude is always bubbling over, rather than her tendency to coarseness, which makes men like her? To be sure, Lucy is nice and sweet, but even you, her companions, must admit that she has painfully little spirit and vivacity.

Enthusiasm, real, genuine enthusiasm, springing from health and good will and love of fun, is an invaluable charm.

Eleanor is always an eagerly welcomed guest at all gatherings of the young people of her neighborhood, whether goose parties or mixed gatherings. Why? Simply because, as one of her admirers puts it, "Things always go when Eleanor is around." Eleanor you see is blessed with an enthusiastic and vivacious spirit.

Enthusiastic people always have fun wherever they go and consequently make other people have a good time. They are foes of monotony and boredom, and hence friends of the whole human race.

"All this is very well," I hear someone saying, "and very fine for the lucky people who are born with the gift of enthusiasm, but you promised to give a recipe for popularity, and what's the use of a recipe when you can't get the ingredients? What about us who weren't born that way?"

Ah, my friend, you are right in calling those fortunate, who are born with the great gift of enthusiasm. It is indeed the wonderful quality which, like the twelfth good fairy's gift, or Pandora's final discovery, annuls many misfortunes. But you are wrong in thinking that this ingredient is unattainable unless you are born with it. If you aren't naturally enthusiastic and vivacious, cultivate these qualities. You think that's impossible? A greater philosopher than you or I differs from you. "Depend upon it," says Johnson, "vivacity is much an art and depends greatly on habit."

To be sure, it will not be so easy for you as for the person born with this good gift, but hard and impossible are by no means synonymous.

But mind one thing. Remember it is not the appearance of enthusiasm that you are to cultivate. That's a hollow bauble which all who find out its emptiness justly despise. Fake enthusiasm like fake selfishness will only bring fake popularity. You must cultivate genuine, heart deep enthusiasm if you wish to win with it genuine, heart deep popularity.

up about it. They were as much concerned as if they owned a machine apiece and knew the exact cost of a new tire. Finally the little rascals hunted up sticks and managed to shove the broken glass out of the way where it could do no harm.

"Now I'll wager," went on the clean-cut young man, "sitting up to bump over a 'speed-discourager' in the form of a deep rut across the road, that anybody who saw that broken glass, without knowing the circumstances, would have blamed some kids for throwing it there. They'd never think of putting it on girls, because it's just natural, somehow, to blame the boys for everything. We sort of think girls are above that sort of thing. But here was a case of girls old enough to know better, deliberately doing a malicious act, while those little shavers who aren't really old enough to have a sense of responsibility, according to our notions, undid the harmful work of the girls."

"Another thing," he concluded, "if wrong, they are pitted and treated gently, while a boy gets the limit. I think we ought to begin to look at some things differently."

As women become better educated and know more of the ways of the world, they hesitate to marry. They recognize the risks of depending upon one individual, who is only human, after all.

Moreover it has become increasingly difficult for the average man to support a family comfortably owing to the advancing cost of living, and the standard of living set by society. Therefore a thoughtful man hesitates to marry, feeling that he may not be able to provide for a family until his children are able to go out into the world and care for themselves.

The mother of small children is the most helpless member of society, yet society has done nothing to protect her in case her "natural provider" as it calls her husband, should fail.

We hear continual preachments about the duty to bear and raise good citizens for the state, but the state has entirely ignored its own responsibility toward those who are to do the hearing and rearing. Therefore it is not surprising that more and more are refusing the "duty" that more and more wives are working at wage-earning occupations and helping to provide something for a future incapacitated by old age.

"O BE" as good as our fathers we must be better. When some one sent a cracked plate to China to have a set made, every piece in the new set had a crack in it.

DINNER IN A PAPER BAG.

For the roast, choose a rolled one, season well and rub thickly with salt, slip into a bag which is large enough for the roast; grease the bag with suet, as butter burns more quickly. A three-pound roast will take about forty-five minutes to roast. Slide the roast out on a heated platter, break the bag gently to allow the gravy to escape. Reheat the gravy and brown with flour. The one drawback in paper bag cookery is that the gravy is never the rich brown of ordinary roasts. The flour to be added may be browned to overcome this defect, or "kitchen bouquet" may be added for coloring.

A fowl roasted in a bag with a bunch of celery or an onion for stuffing is not a dish to be lightly esteemed.

Grease a bag and partly fill with small, even-sized onions; add a little water and cook until tender, the time depending upon the size of the onions. Remove the bag, puncture the bottom to let the liquor escape, season with butter and cream or with a white sauce, as one likes.

Potato straws are very attractive and quickly cooked. Peel the potatoes and slice on a vegetable cutter into straws, parboil for five minutes, drain, add butter, pepper and salt and put into a greased bag and bake for fifteen or twenty minutes. Serve around the roast as a garnish. Sweet potatoes are nice prepared in this way and sugar and butter added to them when put into the bag.

Pies and baked puddings are much improved in texture if baked in bags. Cake to be used for puddings, in a little state, may be freshened nicely by putting for a few minutes into a bag and laying on the oven rack.

For a small company chops are very nice cooked in the individual size and served piping hot in the bag to each guest. When our hotels and restaurants take up paper bag cookery in earnest we will not be served with cold chops or steaks.

Good Fishing in Galilee.
Bible students may be interested to know that there is still good fishing in the Sea of Galilee. Dr. Ernest W. Gurney Masterman, who has practiced medicine in Galilee, made a special study of the fishes found there and in a recent book says that he found 43 varieties, twice as many as can be found in the British Isles. The fishermen are taxed a fifth of the value of the fish caught, the revenue going partly to the sultan and partly to a pasha in Damascus.

Why All the Nice Men Are Married

YOU ought to get married," said Dolly to Angie. "All the nice men are married," replied Angie. "I never find as nice single men as the married men I know."

At this John looked a trifle cheery. "Do you know why married men are the nicest?" asked Dolly.

"Because their wives rub all the rough edges off," said John. "This John didn't look so cheery."

"Before they are married," continued Dolly, "they go about thinking they are the lords of creation. And of course, a person with that sort of disposition isn't so pleasant as one who thinks there are others on this footstool. But a wife soon shows a man that he's only half of creation."

"You bet she does," interrupted John, "and sometimes not half!" "She just brings out all the nice side of his character," went on Dolly, "instead of letting him grow more and more selfish as bachelors are apt to do. He's thoughtful and considerate for her, and so he's thoughtful and considerate for others. And she makes him think all the time he's a pretty good fellow. And while a man entertains that opinion of himself, he's apt to be nice to people. Why I have acquired all my wrinkles laughing at John's jokes! But when he hears me laughing heartily, he thinks he's telling a pretty good story and that makes him feel at peace with the world."

John looked rather sheepish. "But I can't marry a married man," said Angie, "so I don't see how I'm going to get one of these nice men."

"Get him and train him," replied Dolly. "That's the way to do. Then you see you have just the kind you want. For you can train him to be almost any kind of man you like."

"Is that what you did with me?" asked John, as they rose from the table.

"You were pretty good before I got you," smiled Dolly. "I didn't have to do much training in your case."

"You don't want them too good," she further cautioned Angie. "You want them just human. If they are too good, living with them would be about as exhilarating as living with a wooden statue of a saint, with his halo fastened on. Just get a plain, ordinary man, and then when you see some trait you don't like, begin diplomatically to weed it out. And you'll soon have as nice a husband as can be found anywhere—except John."

Drain and mix the scooped out pieces with cold ham or other meat and bread crumbs, chopping fine and seasoning highly.

Fill the shell with this force meat, fasten on the cap and bake in a deep dish with frequent basting of butter and water, thirty minutes.

Succotash is made of green corn and lima or string beans. Have a third more corn than beans and just cover with water and no more. Add squares of bacon and simmer gently until the beans are done and the water boiled away. Drain and add a large cup of milk. Continue cooking but protect the pan from the bottom heat on the milk with scorch. After an hour add a tablespoon of dissolved cornstarch and a sprinkling of pepper. If the bacon is omitted add butter to the seasoning.

Cabbage and its three close relatives, cauliflower, kohlrabi and Brussels sprouts are among our best vegetables. The cabbage properly cooked closely resembles the other three which are so highly esteemed. Cut it in sections and wash well, drain and put into a deep saucepan containing a generous amount of briskly boiling water. Add a teaspoon of salt and a fourth of a teaspoon of baking soda. Cook twenty-five minutes, uncovered, and boiling all the time. Push the cabbage under the water every five minutes. Drain off all the water. When done, cut in pieces with a knife and mix lightly with white sauce. If the cabbage is well drained the sauce will adhere and form a creamy coating.

This recipe was given to the writer by her teacher, Maria Parloa, and has been found most satisfactory.

Kohlrabi should be cooked with mutton, or cooked with several changes of water and dressed with butter. Brussels sprouts and cauliflower are dressed with white sauce. Summer squash—The white scalloped ones are best. Use them before the seeds and skin harden. Cut in small sections and boil until tender. Drain thoroughly. Have a little butter browning in a frying pan, lay in the squash and turn until it begins to brown, or mash with cream and butter.

Eggplants are said to be a disappointing crop, throughout the country this season, but they are no higher in price than in more fortunate years. If they are to be fried cut in slices of equal thickness and soak for an hour in well salted water. Drain, egg and crumb and fry in a little butter.

If they are to be stuffed cut off the blossom end, scrape out the center and put all to soak as directed.

English. PERPLEXED. "Maybe he isn't counting you, but just likes, to visit with the family. Stay out of the room when he visits, and pay no attention to him at meals, if you don't want to encourage him. He will probably tell you his nationality if you ask him."

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My mother is very cruel to me. She doesn't want me home at all and calls me names I couldn't tell you in this letter. I have been living out since I was sixteen, but I got sick and am out of the hospital only two weeks. The doctor told me to stay home four weeks and rest, but four days after I got home my mother put me out, with my clothes. I am home again, but she says I must go and she tells the neighbors terrible things about me which are not true, but I am afraid they believe them. I have no other place to go. What shall I do?

BROKEN HEARTED GIRL. Ask one of the neighbors or somebody you know, to take you home until you are strong enough to work, and promise to pay them, for your board and lodging as soon as you can earn the money.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is there no way for a perfectly respectable girl to meet nice young men in a big city, unless she goes out on the sly and makes herself common by "picking them up?"

I am twenty years old, have lived in the city two years, have a good education, dress very well (not loud), can play the piano, know how to dance and row and can make an evening entertaining, providing the other party does not find entertainment "crawling in a corner of aavenport and hugging and kissing until midnight."

I attend church regularly, but have been introduced to only two young men—one from the University—who is so besotted by the feminine species that his life must be a burden, and the other a fellow who has an automobile and would love to have a girl, but who lacks about two inches of being five foot tall.

Hence I turn to you with my inquiry.

Are there any nice boys? I certainly have not found them in church.

There are nice boys, but they flock by themselves, according to our faulty American social system.

Why not be friendly with the short young man who has an automobile. If he's a good sort? He may be able to make you acquainted with other young men. Some girls and young men join dancing class, or club, in order to meet each other. You might join a country club or boat club—but that takes money.

It does seem that it's only the "fresh young things" who get acquainted, but the kind they get acquainted with wouldn't suit a girl like you. I know. Perhaps about the only resource left to a nice girl is to open a boarding house and "feed the brutes." The fact is, though that many excellent young men are just as wishful of knowing young women, as you are of knowing them, but there doesn't seem to be any way of bringing the young folk together.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am keeping steady, company with a young man and he treats me just fine. Do you think he cares for me when he comes to see me three times a week and calls me over the phone every morning?

He says he loves me. How can you tell if someone loves you?

He seems very devoted. If he really loves you he will want to marry you and tell you so. Do not allow him any privileges unless he loves you as well as that.

 "When we speak of the hope of conviction by which we live we can at least do so gravely and frankly. . . we are too apt to turn the edge of disagreement by banter; too apt to shrink away from what we really most care to say . . . or to hear through dread of a smile; too ready to distrust our own sincerity because of the inevitable ebb and flow of our feelings and so to throw a veil of something like cynicism over the subjects we feel most sacred."—Caroline Stephen.

RASH ALMOST COVERED FACE

And Arms. Terrible Itching, Blistery Sores on Arms and Limbs. Could not Sleep. Used Cuticura Remedies. Entirely Rid of All Skin Eruptions.

Warrenville, O.—"I have felt the effects of blood poisoning for eighteen years. I was never without some eruptions on my body. The terrible itching caused me much suffering and discomfort, while the rubbing and scratching made it worse. Last spring I had a terrible breaking out of blistery sores on my arms and limbs. My face and arms were almost covered with rash. I could not sleep and lost nineteen pounds in five weeks. My face was terribly red and sore, and felt as if my skin was on fire. At last I tried a sample of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and I found them so cool, soothing and healing that I got some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Resolvent. I bathed with hot water and Cuticura Soap, then I applied the Cuticura Ointment every night for two months, and I am entirely cured of all skin eruptions." (Signed) Mrs. Kathryn Krafft, Nov. 28, 1911.

Cuticura Soap is best for skin and hair because of its extreme purity, delicate yet effective medication, and refreshing fragrance. It costs but little more than ordinary soaps, wears to a wafer and gives comfort and satisfaction every moment of its use, for toilet, bath and nursery. BELOIT CHILD CRUSHED TO DEATH BY AUTOMOBILE

Five Year Old Ruby Wheeler Killed By Machine Driven By Clarence Bishop of Harrison, Ill.

Little Ruby Wheeler, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wheeler, was instantly killed about eight o'clock Saturday evening when she ran in front of a big Marmon touring car driven by Clarence H. Bishop of Harrison, Ill. The terrible accident occurred on West Grand Avenue in front of the public library where the Wheeler child and other children had been playing around the fountain. The girl dashed into the street just as the car came along. A fractured skull caused instant death although she was carried to the Beloit hospital in the death-dealing machine. Those who witnessed the accident say that no blame can be attached to Mr. Bishop who was driving at a speed not to exceed eight miles an hour.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES.

Embroidery.
 (By Howard L. Rann.)

EMBROIDERY is a form of relaxation which enables a woman to engage in conversation on any topic without being handicapped by her mental processes. Some women are able to relax to this extent without it, but their number is few.

Embroidery consists of stretching a piece of green goods over a hoop and making passes just it with a needle and thread. A certain number of these passes constitutes a stitch.

There is no family connection between embroidery and darning. Darning is a vulgar pastime, and is never resorted to until everybody in the house is out at the heels. It is much easier to embroider a still life photograph of a Japanese crane on a blue silk sofa pillow than it is to darn one pair of socks.

The embroidery habit has a very depressing influence upon husbands whose clothes need repairing. Many a man is going around with his trousers held in an upright attitude by ten penny nails and other tawdry, while his wife curls up in the hammock and carves her initials on a new set of dollies.

Old-fashioned embroidery consisted in knitting flowing neck scarfs in three colors, crocheting the cow wristlet and weaving navy blue wool socks with a seam in them that would cause the wearer to roll in his walk like an intoxicated boatswain. There was also the good old crazy quilt, made up of exhausted lingerie and the pulchre remains of near-silk petticoats. No one who ever woke up in the night and saw one of these quilts staring him sternly in the eye would care to call it back to a world of woe.

Embroidery would be more useful if it were applied occasionally to such homely garments as pants, shirts and other pieces of bric-a-brac worn by the male sex.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN

MODERATE FASTING, PROPERLY REGULATED, NEARLY ALWAYS BENEFICIAL.

After fasting for a day or two the food tastes much better and there is an inclination to retain it longer in the mouth and masticate it thoroughly. These are important factors in nutrition and consequently in the maintenance of health and efficiency, and the benefits derived are sufficient to warrant fasting for a day or two every month.

The objections that have been urged against fasting apply only to indiscriminate fasting for more than five days at a time, without knowledge of its dangers or of the means of regulating it so as to secure the best results.

There are few cases in which a fast of from one to five days can fail to benefit, although in every case certain measures can be used that will avoid the bad effects—copious water drinking, enema, lemonade, charcoal tablets and sometimes a mild cathartic.

"You're queer cattle, you women. I suppose a feller could live in the world a hundred years and not understand you. There's Della Ryan, for example, the brainiest woman I know, could give most men cards and spades and beat 'em hands down. Last night at Rocky Bar they were telling me that she's written to the operator there and told him she'll get him a position here in the Atlantic and Pacific Cable Company, in which she's a large stockholder, that'll double his salary and give him a chance he'd never have got in this world. She wants to pay off a mortgage on a ranch Perley has in the Sacramento Valley and she's sent Mrs. Perley a check for five hundred dollars. She's offered Willoughby a first-rate job on the Red Calumet group of mines near Sonora in which Con had a controlling interest, and she's written to the doctor to come down and become one of the house physicians of the St. Filomena Hospital, which she practically runs. She's ready to do all this because of what they did for Dominick, and yet she, his own mother, won't give the boy a cent and keeps him on starvation wages, just because she wants to spite his wife."

Before Dinner Was Over Gene Ex-

He looked at his daughter across the table with narrowed eyes. "What have you got to say for yourself after that, young woman?" he demanded. Rose had evidently nothing to say. She raised her eyebrows and shook her head by way of reply. Her face, in the flood of lamplight, looked pale and tired. She was evidently distraught and depressed; a very different-looking Rose from the girl he had taken away with him four weeks earlier. He regarded her for an anxiously-contemplative moment and then said: "What's the matter? Seems to me you look sort of peaked."

"I?" she queried with a surprised start. "Why, I'm quite well."

"Well, you were before you went up to the mines?"

A color came into her cheeks and she lowered her eyes.

"I'm a little tired, I think, and that always makes me look pale. It was a hard sort of trip, all those hours in the sleigh, and that hotel at Rocky Bar was a dreadful place. I couldn't sleep. There was a covey somewhere near—it sounded as if it were in the next room—and the roosters all began to crow in the middle of the night. I'll be all right to-morrow."

Her father drew his coffee-cup toward him and dropped in a lump of sugar. No word had passed between him and his daughter as to the scene he had witnessed two days before in the parlor of Perley's Hotel. She was ignorant of the fact that he had seen it and he intended that she should remain ignorant of it. But the next morning he had had an interview with Dominick Ryan, in which the young man, confronted with angry questions and goaded past reserve by shame and pain, had confessed the misery of his marriage and the love that in an unguarded moment had slipped beyond his control.

Cannon had said little to him. Beyond telling him that he must not see Miss Cannon again, his comments on Dominick's confessions had been brief and non-committal. It was not his business to preach to Della Ryan's boy, and a large experience of men had given him a practically limitless tolerance of any and all lapses of which the human animal is capable. They only concerned him as they bore on his own affairs. In this particular case they did bear on his affairs, closely and importantly, on the affair of all others dearest and nearest to him—the happiness of his daughter. He knew that in this three weeks of imprisonment she had come to feel for Dominick Ryan a sentiment she had never before felt for any man. He had seen her in the young man's arms, and knowing Rose as he knew her, that was enough.

Driving down from Antelope in the sleigh he thought about it hard, harder than he had ever before in his life thought of any sentimental complication. He was enraged—coldly and grimly enraged—that his girl should have stumbled into such a pitfall. But it was not his habit to waste time and force in the indulgence of pointless anger. The thing had happened. Rose, who had been courted many times and never warmed to more than pity for her unsuccessful suitors, had suddenly, by a fateful, unpremeditated chance, met her mate—the man she loved. And the most maddening part of it was that he was the man of all others her father would have chosen for her had such a choice been possible.

He bit on his cigar, turning it over between his teeth, and looked sideways at her as she sat silent in the sleigh beside him. She was unquestionably pale, pale and listless, her body wrapped in enveloping furs, sunk in an attitude of weariness, her eyes full of dejected reverie. Even to his blindly groping, masculine perceptions her distant looks, her dispirited silence, told of melancholy preoccupation. She was not happy—his Rose, who, if she had wanted it and he could have bought, begged or stolen it, would have had the moon.

To-night, in her white dress, the mellow radiance of the lamp throwing out her figure against the shadowy richness of the dining-room walls, she bore the same appearance of despondency. Her luster was dimmed, her delicate skin had lost its dazzling, separated bloom of pink and white, her glance was absent and unresponsive. Never, since the death of her mother, now ten years back, had he seen her when it was so obvious that she harbored an inner, unexpressed sense of trouble.

"I guess the city's the best place for you," he said. "Roughing it don't seem to suit you if you and chickens keep you awake all night. I've seen the time when the hotel at Rocky Bar would have been considered the top notch of luxury. I wish you could see the places your mother lived in when I first took her up here. You're a spoiled girl, Rose Cannon."

"Who spoiled me, I wonder?" she said, looking at him with a gleam of humor in her eyes.

"We're not calling names to-night," he answered, "anyway, not since Gene's gone. All my desire to throw things and be ugly vanishes when that boy gets out. So the noises at Rocky Bar kept you awake?"

"Yes, and I was wakeful, anyway," she looked down at her cup, stirring her coffee. He thought she appeared conscious and said:

"What made you wakeful, guilty conscience?"

"Guilty conscience?" she repeated in a tone that was full of indignant surprise. "Why should I have a guilty conscience?"

"Lord knows! Don't fire off these conundrums at me. I don't know all your secrets, honey."

She did not answer. He glanced furtively at her and saw that her face had flushed. He took a cigar from the box the butler had set at his elbow and bit off the end.

"How should I know the secrets of a young lady like you? A long time ago, perhaps, I used to, after your mother died and you were my little Rosey, fourteen years old. Lord, how cunning you were then! Just beginning to lengthen out, a little woman and a little girl, both in one. You didn't have secrets in those days or wakeful nights either."

He applied a match to the end of the cigar and drew at it; his ears strained for his daughter's reply. She again made none and he shot a quick glance at her. She was still stirring her coffee, her eyebrows drawn together, her eyes on the swirl of brown in the cup. He settled himself in his chair, a bulky figure, his clothes ribbed with creases, his head low between his shoulders, and a reek of cigar smoke issuing from his lips.

"How'd You Like Dominick Ryan? You Haven't Said Anything About Him."

"How'd you like it up there, anyway?"

"Up where?"

"Up at Antelope. It was a sort of strange, new experience for you."

"Oh, I liked it so much—I loved part of it. I liked the people much better than the people down here, Mrs. Perley and Cora, and Perley, and Willoughby—did you ever know a nicer man than Willoughby?—and Judge Washburne. He was a real gentleman, not only in his manners but down in his heart. And even Perley's boy, he was so natural and awkward and honest. I felt different from what I do here, more myself, less as if outside things were influencing me to do things I didn't always like to do or mean to do. I felt as if I were doing just what I ought to do—it's hard to express it—as if I were being true."

"Oh," said her father with a falling inflection which had a sound of significant comprehension.

"Do you know what I mean?" she asked.

"I can make a sort of guess at it." He puffed his cigar for a moment, then took it from his mouth, eyed the lit end, and said:

"How'd you like Dominick Ryan? You haven't said anything about him."

Her voice, in answering, sounded low and careful. She spoke slowly, as if considering her words:

"I thought he was very nice, and good-looking, too. He's not a bit like Cornelia Ryan, or his mother, either. Cornelia has such red hair."

"No, looks like the old man. Good deal like him in character, too. Con Ryan was the best feller in the world, but not hard enough, not enough grit. His wife had it though, had enough for both. If it hadn't been for her, Con would never have amounted to anything—too soft and good-natured, and the boy's like him."

"How?" She raised her head and looked directly at him, her lips slightly parted.

"Soft, too, just the same way, soft-hearted. An easy mark for any one with a hard-luck story and not too many scruples. Why did he marry that woman? I don't know anything about it, but I'd like to bet she saw the stuff he was made of and cried and teased and nagged till she got him to do it."

"I don't see that he could have done anything else."

D. C. Bybee, teaming contractor living at 669 Keeling Court, Canton, Ill., is now well rid of a severe and annoying case of kidney trouble. His back pained and he was bothered with headaches and dizzy spells. "I took Foley Kidney Pills just as directed and in a few days I felt much better. My life and strength seemed to come back, my backache left me, I slept well, and I got up free from headache and dizzy spells. I am now all over my trouble and recommend Foley Kidney Pills to everyone. Badger Drug Co."

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, August 27, 1872. Clear Lake—Grand Mass Meeting. September 5th: Arrangements for the Grant and Wilson outdoor gathering at Clear Lake have so far progressed that we are now enabled to announce the presence of Gen. John A. Logan, Hon. Matt. H. Carpenter, Hon. T. O. Howe, Gov. Washburn, Hon. Charles G. Williams and probably General Gibson of Ohio. The committee is corresponding with eastern speakers, with a fair prospect of securing one or two of the leading men of that locality. The entire north side of the lake (Mount Hope) will be devoted to the exercises and several speakers' stands, surrounded by seats, will be constructed. Hon. E. W. Keyes, chairman of the state central committee, has entered into the spirit of the affair with his usual vigor and is now endeavoring to secure special trains for the occasion.

Republican Meeting: Senator Matt H. Carpenter will address the republicans of Janesville and vicinity on the issues of the day, at Lappin's hall this evening.

Brief Items: The fall term of Beloit college opens the 4th of September.

Trinity parish school will open for the fall term on the 9th of September. The thermometer indicated ninety-seven degrees above zero on Sunday. Church going wasn't popular.

A Grant and Wilson pole will be raised at Lima Center in a week or two.

Through sunshine and through storm,
They could not hurry much, they say.
The weather was too warm.

UNCLE WALT
The Poet Philosopher
Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams
BY WALT MASON

I place the seal of my approval upon the wild, majestic sea. The waves, in turmoil and removal, raise noble sentiments in me. I used to view the roaring breakers, the heavy cattle, and fifty million hogs or more. But all that space for which man wishes, on which to wield his plows and rakes, is given up to cheap John fishes, and mermaids, eels and water snakes. But I am older now and sadder, I do less thinking with my tongue, and many vital facts are plainer than e'er they seemed when I was young. The sea is nature's object lesson, placed here to show us where we're at. Sometimes my head (I am a confession) swells up until it strains my hat; sometimes I entertain the notion that I'm the biggest thing in view. I only need to see the ocean, and then I shrivel up a few.

DINNER STORIES

"Is mamma's good little boy ready to have his bath now?"
"Oh, maw, cut out the goody-goody business. When a chap's six years old it's time to take him out of the kindergarten class. I'll take my splash in the tub when I've had a cigarette."

"Things didn't seem to work together in your series of dramatic representations."
"They didn't," admitted Mr. Storington Barnes. "When we played tragedy the box office receipts were a farce, and when we played farce they were a tragedy."

John Martin, for several Presidential campaigns sergeant-at-arms, of the Democratic national convention, carries around with him about 200 pounds adipose, even when he is perspiring in a convention hall. Martin used to be a lawyer. His clients were, for the most part, such as had litigation about the Four Courts Building, in St. Louis.

One summer day, when the courts were languishing and clients were scarce, Martin and several attorneys of his class were cooling themselves on the shady side of the old building. Martin had taken off his hat, then he removed his shirt collar, and finally he removed his shoes and socks. That reminded him of the time when he was a boy. And then: "I'll bet the drinks for the crowd that I can beat anybody in a foot-race around the Four Courts block."

The block included the Four Courts Building and the county jail and city calaboose.

There were several takers. Each man skinned his shoes and socks and the reporters were made judges of the sprints. The mercury was nearly out of sight, as it generally is in St. Louis in midsummer. Every runner was bareheaded. They had made about two-thirds of the distance when Martin saw that he was falling behind.

Encountering a policeman on the run, he called to him to head off the front man. "He's got my watch," he puffed. The guardian of the law was fresh, and was soon under way. He collared the man in front.

This gave Martin a chance to pass, and he came out first. But it was declared a foul and Martin had to pay the bet.

Foley Kidney Pills gave me immediate relief and strengthened me wonderfully. I am pleased to recommend their use."
